No word from Alicia still so I will try again. The NYT is a fickle group but let me check on a few things there as well. Will get back to you soon

Hi Diane --- any word from Alicia Mundy of the WSJ?

Also, I resent for the third or fourth time the letter to the editor of the NYT, and it still has not been published. Is there someone you can call and talk to about this? It feels like we are getting stonewalled.

Incredibly, I can't get our local paper to do a story on this. I emailed our two press releases to the Gazette, I know the reporter well, but that hasn't helped. So I emailed the press releases yesterday to the local Independent (alt. weekly) and the Colorado Springs Business Journal and haven't heard back from them yet.

It seems like this story has died and no one is interested any more. I was hoping we could keep the media pressure on this subcommittee so that perhaps they would decide to stay far away from me!
